LETTER TO THE CONGREGATION
FROM ST. LUKE'S RE-OPENING COMMITTEE

September 2, 2020

Dear fellow members of Saint Luke's Lutheran Church, Grace to you and peace, from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ. After prayerful consideration, many discussions, and commitment to understanding the needs of our parish community, it is with much joy that our Reopening Committee is pleased to announce that we have developed an updated plan to re-open the church building for worship!

With an emphasis on Reuniting Safely this new plan will go into effect beginning Sunday September 6th, 2020 with all three services. Drawing from the current federal, state, and CDC guidelines as well as extensive conversation with church members, the Reuniting Safely plan casts a vision for a return to in building worship while continuing to remain committed to virtual offerings for those that need or prefer to worship remotely.

While this plan represents hours of effort and prayerful consideration by your Council Executive and Reopening Committees, the situation with COVID-19 remains fluid and, as such, this plan is subject to change at any time, often with very little notice. Please continue to stay in touch with the office, our various social media outlets, and friends for the very latest news. Please continue to pray for those working to make St. Luke's Reuniting Safely plan a reality. If during the days or weeks following your attendance at a service, you become ill and are diagnosed with COVID-19 please contact either Pastor Robyn or Pastor Kari.

The current updated plan to return to the church building is as follows: • 8:30 and 11:15 Traditional service will be led in the sanctuary. • 10:00 Gig service will be offered in the gym (bring your own chair). For all services, it will be necessary to call the church office (734-847-8275) or via email (office@stlukeschurch.net) by Friday at 3:00 pm the week preceding the services to announce your intention of which service you will be attending. There is a strict limit of 50 people at each indoor service including the worship leaders. This will also allow us to understand who was in attendance should someone fall ill later.

Additionally, if you register for a service and find you cannot attend please notify the church office so that if there is a waiting list the next person in line can be notified that they can attend. 8:30 & 11:15 Traditional service (in the sanctuary)

- Masks are required over the nose and mouth.
- • Temperatures will be taken at the door and you will be asked to attend digitally if you have a temperature of 100.4 or higher or have a persistent cough.
- • Please use the hand sanitizer available at each entrance. • Please check in with the usher so that we can track attendance and they can direct you to your pew. Currently every other pew is taped off. (The ushers will fill the pews from the front to the back. At the conclusion of the service the ushers will dismiss members from the back to the front).
- • Additional hand sanitizer will be available in each pew.
- • Music will be provided by musicians and soloists, but we will not have communal singing at this time. Oral responses are also discouraged (per current Synod and CDC guidelines). 10:00 Gig service (in the gym)
- • Please bring your own chair. Please fill the gym from closest to the worship leaders back and dismiss in reverse. • Please use the hand sanitizer available at the entrance.

- • Temperatures will be taken at the door and you will be asked to attend digitally if you have a temperature of 100.4 or higher or have a persistent cough.
- • Masks are required over the nose and mouth.
- • Please check in with the usher so that we can track attendance and they can direct you to where to place your seat. Please do not place your chair in overly close proximity to other members.
- • Music will be led by Kari Crosby and worship leaders, but we will not have communal singing or verbal responses participants at this time (per current Synod and CDC guidelines).

To keep everyone safe we will need to have people willing to be trained to usher at the 8:30, 10:00 & 11:15 services, please contact Pastor Robyn if you will volunteer.

Respectfully submitted, Reopening Committee

Guidelines for Groups using Church Building

Your Church Council, at the recommendation of the Reopening Committee has given approval for a limited number of groups to return to use of the building. These approvals have been restricted to just four groups at this time as Council and Reopening Committee are sensitive to maintaining time limits between the uses of any room or area so as to minimize the additional need and cost of sanitizing areas between their uses.

At this time the Council has approved the Pre-school's use of the gymnasium and preschool classrooms, as well as the restrooms in the gym. Likewise, the pre-school staff has been given permission for limited use of the kitchen for refrigeration of food for treats and snacks.

Also given permission to re-enter the building is the God Works program. This program will be allowed to use the kitchen for preparation of meals to be distributed to God Works participants with a curbside pickup only.

The Comforters group has been approved to return to using the Leppein Room on Mondays.

AA/Al Anon has been approved to use the Youth Room and the 8th grade classroom for their activities on Thursday evenings. All groups using the Church building under Covid-19 restrictions must agree to the following provisions. All groups participants must: 1. Sanitize their hands upon entering the building 2. Wear a face mask while in the building (unless they are eating or drinking) 3. Groups will be limited to occupancy only during approved days and times as designated in their use permit, and be limited by Governor's Executive Orders to no more than (at this date, Sept. 1,) 10 participants per group. 4. The number of people in attendance must be limited to provide for the six (6) foot social distancing guidelines from the State of Michigan as appropriate to the rooms to which they are permitted. 5. Groups whose members are found in areas not permitted will forfeit their permit. 6. Groups not specifically permitted to use the Koinonia Center/ gymnasium must use the restrooms in the hallway next to the church office. 7. Unless specifically permitted, the kitchen is not to be used, or entered. 8. All group food and beverages are limited to areas that do not have carpeting (with the exception of the pre-school). 9. Key fobs for entry into the building will be limited to necessary personnel, and programmed only for specific days, times and calendar duration. 10. All groups will agree to provide their own cleaning and disinfecting supplies sufficient to sanitizing the areas they occupy, and agree to sanitize those areas as they leave the facility.

Dear sisters and brothers in Christ,

In the last few weeks we have had three baptisms at St. Luke's. I've had the honor of presiding over two of them. What struck me so much at each of them is how much COVID has taken away. Over eleven years I have lost count of how many baptisms I've presided over but I have always looked forward to them. These last two, though, I haven't been able to do the parts of the sacrament that involve touch. I couldn't hold the babies, I couldn't pour the water, I couldn't anoint with oil... I was there to offer the words.

It got me thinking, then, about communion and the loss of contact there, as well. I miss terribly being able to look each of you in the eyes as I place the wafer into your hand. I miss hearing the whispered amens and thanks be to go. I miss blessing those who are not yet communing.

And beyond that I miss the holy space created by being with people when they are sick, when they are preparing for surgery, and when they are nearing end of life. Those times are places where the Holy Spirit is always so present.

Yet, even as I mourned the loss of these points of contact – the beautiful Spirit sat down on my shoulder and began to whisper to look back on the miracles of Jesus. When his mother Mary tells him to help when they run out of wine – he doesn't go and touch the water – through his word he tells the steward how to bring the miracle about. In Matthew when the paralytic man's friends bring him to Jesus, it is by his word that he tells him to get up, take his mat and go home. When the 5,000 are fed he does not touch the bread or fish, his disciples do the distributing. In Luke when the 10 lepers are healed – Jesus simply tells them to go present themselves at the temple.

I am reminded that the Spirit moves and works and does the work of God in many ways, not just through touch. And it wasn't only through Jesus's hands that the miracles came to be – often it was through the hands of his disciples or friends or people in the crowd. When I have the privilege to preside at baptisms right now and I am the bearer of the words but the families and sponsors are the hands that move in the water and the oil, together we are bearing witness to the history of the power of God at work in many and mysterious ways. When we break bread together without our hands meeting we are reminded how the disciples broke bread around the table. And when we are kept separate during times of struggle or heartache we know that the space does not become any less holy but that the Spirit expands to surround us.

In all, it has been a reminder to me that the powers of this world will never overtake our God. No matter what COVID or other illness may try to take away from us God will provide a new way forward. Thanks be to God!

Blessings,

I finally had a good cry the other day.

Joshua had been in quarantine for four days after falling ill with symptoms that lined up with many COVID-19 symptoms, and so to be on the cautious side with me and the two littles, as per the recommendations of health guidelines, we made the hard choice to isolate him away from us until we had test results back. This meant that I was left preparing for Sunday services, which thankfully, were online for me that week, preparing the recordings for daily prayer services, making pastoral phone calls and covering other work duties, all while juggling the kids—which, honestly, (pats self on back) I think I pulled off pretty well, all things considered. I created a new format for the online services as I continue to work to improve the quality for those, and even managed to do so with only one small interruption and appearance by the youngest of the two kids wandering in behind me during the Kyrie (go back and watch for her—I finally gave up trying to get through the entire service without interruption!). All of this, while trying to keep up a strong face for the kids despite being worried about my husband and my own possible exposure as a high-risk-for-complications individual, and trying to maintain some semblance of “normalcy” for them, whatever that looks like in these strange days.

After the past months of preaching a word of hope into our current world circumstances, while still having been in the middle of getting my footing in this new community and new congregation, trying to prepare, plan, and pivot with every new change, I needed to hear a word of hope spoken to me. That night, the weight of pastoring in these days, of grief over losses in my personal life, and of worries that burdened my heart, felt so, so heavy to carry, and so I sat down to finally allow myself to have a good cry over it all.

I cried that my husband was sick, and we did not yet know how worried we should be. I cried for my kids who did not really understand what was happening. I cried over the realities of a pandemic and the uncertainty of what the months ahead hold. I cried that I have been doing my best to pastor St Luke’s but also feeling I inadequate because I miss being gathered in worship and fellowship and seeing peoples’ unobstructed faces—I did not answer the call to ministry to have to be distanced from people. I cried because I miss singing in community; I miss doing ministry the ways that I have for the last nine years. I cried because we never got to have my installation service and I never got a chance to fully settle into this call before the rug got ripped out from under us, and that I never got to get going with many of the things I had been dreaming to do with you all. I cried for the friends and colleagues whose deaths I have recently learned about, and for those who have received discouraging health news. I cried because some days it can feel like too much to bear, and I cried because I know that I am far from alone in any of these feelings—we’ve all carried much grief these past months—and for the myriad reasons that hope can sometimes be hard to get our fingers around.

I share all of this, my truth on that day and in that moment, because the thing is, sometimes it is hard to see the hope that God speaks into our lives, and we need to know that someone else can speak that hard truth aloud for us. Admitting that sometimes hope seems slippery, allows others to give voice to their own struggles as well, and when we can name those things for one another and create space to feel safely, it can open our eyes again to the wonders of God’s grace in our lives in new ways. Sometimes it all feels like it is just too much. Lamenting is real, and faithful, and we all need hope spoken to us at times, just as we are all also called to speak words of hope to others, we, the priesthood of all believers are called to this ministry together. We need to hear that God desires good things and life and hope and grace. We need to hear it, because so much of the world will tell us otherwise. We will hurt and be hurt. We will experience loss and fear and grief and we will need to be reassured and reaffirmed that we are enough when the voices around us tell us otherwise.

I do not share this vulnerability lightly, especially in these weird circumstances where we never had the opportunity to fully build up a mutual sharing of trust with one another. I share it because of what God spoke into my heart next that night; a word that maybe you, or someone else reading this, needs to hear today. It was in the midst of my tears and finally allowing myself to feel the full weight of things that night, that I began flipping through some of my pictures from the last few months, reminding myself that there have been moments of joy, too; moments that wouldn’t have happened if things were “normal” and pre-COVID.

But what finally spoke comfort and peace into my hurting heart was looking at a picture that I had taken and planned to use in my sermon for that very same day. I could not figure out how to incorporate it in the sermon and so I ended up leaving it out, but that image spoke to my heart and served its purpose that night. It was an image of my feet, taken while standing on a rock. I had taken that picture while thinking about the scripture text from Matthew 16 where Peter proclaims Jesus “the Messiah, the Son of the Living God,” and Jesus affirms that it would be on that rock that Jesus would build his church. It was on this statement, not Peter, but this truth—that Jesus is the Messiah, the Son of the Living God—that Jesus would build his church.

When I saw that image that I had taken just a few days before, I recalled the words of hope that I had preached earlier in the day for those gathered in online worship, and I realized that God was speaking to me in that moment, too—that Jesus is the Messiah, the Son of the Living God. We follow a God who lives, who was, who is, and who is yet to come. We worship a God who is Life, and though the forces of this world can beat us down, that truth is constant and sure and a firm foundation, and it is in this truth that we have hope, when things feel hopeless. Our Living God, our rock on which our faith and the Church is built, provides a way forward, even if it is not on the path we were expecting. Our Living God graces us with hope and tells us that we are enough, and that even when our plans get tossed up into the air and scattered in the wind, the living, breathing God walks with us.

Maybe you, or someone else reading this needs to hear this word spoken. The more I stared at that image of my feet on the rock, the more I felt the Holy Spirit compelling me to name this for those who need to hear it. So, if you are hurting today for whatever reason or reasons that might be, hear this word of hope from the Rock who gives us life and calls us to grace: you are enough; you are loved; you are cherished. The Living God hears you, sees you, affirms that you are loved and held, and the Living God will set your feet back on this solid rock, even when you slip or stumble and fall. Because a Living God who saves us is able to journey with us through all of our human experiences and carry us safely to the other side. We hear from scripture that this God who lives never slumbers or sleep, and so we can rest in the hope that we are always in God’s loving care. May you know God’s abounding love for you, and may this Word give you hope.

In Christ,

Pastor Kari Rinas

ONLINE BIBLE STUDY

Pastor Kari will begin an online Bible Study for anyone interested in participating. It will follow the same schedule that the Luther Haus Bible study had been following, meeting on the second and fourth Wednesdays of the month at 10am. This study will take place over Facebook Rooms. She will be using my Pastor Kari Rinas Facebook account. If you would like to take part, Pastor Kari will need you to let her know that you would like to participate. A "friend" request will then be sent to you from Pastor Kari Rinas, or you can send her a request, using this link to find her profile: <https://www.facebook.com/pastorkari.rinas>. This will be a very easy-to-use feature. An invitation will be sent to you each morning of the study on Facebook promptly at 10am. You will then click on the link, which will allow you to participate in the study. Even if you do not have a camera or a microphone on your computer, you should still be able to listen in. We will plan to begin on the second Wednesday of September, September 9th. The first meeting on the 9th will be to gather, test out the technology, have a short prayer and reflection, and decide what topics we would like to decide in weeks to come. Bring your Bible, some coffee, and pen and paper if you wish to make notes! Looking forward to "seeing" you as we dive deeper into scripture together!

WELCOME BACK PLAY & LEARN PRE-SCHOOL

We cannot wait to hear about all of the wonderful things you are going to learn and how much fun all of the new students will have! Welcome back, Ms. Carol, Ms. Debbie, Ms. Joni, Ms. Tina and Ms. Betty! Have a great school year!

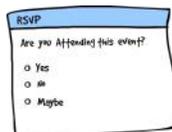

WORSHIP ASSISTANTS NEEDED FOR INDOOR WORSHIP

Erin is taking names and recruiting ushers for in person worship inside. We are looking for helpful hands in taking attendance, taking temperatures, and guiding our visitors and members to their seats in the sanctuary. If you can help, please contact the office or email Erin at erin.beard@stlukeschurh.net if you would be available

RESERVATIONS BEING TAKEN FOR WORSHIP

Please reach out to Erin in the office so she is able to take your reservation for worship for the upcoming Sunday. We are taking attendance for 4 weeks out. Limit of 50 people per worship.

NEW SCHOOL YEAR BLESSING

As the new school year begins we are aware that not all our students will be using a backpack for the year. We have decided that we will be distributing shirts (to those who signed up) to students and teachers for the blessing that we will hold on Sunday, September 20 at all three services. Even if you did not sign up for a shirt you are invited to come and receive a blessing for this school year.

COUNTERS

I am looking for people interested in helping count the incoming offerings. With the pandemic we are doing the counting on Wednesdays to provide time for those sent by mail to arrive and any virus on envelopes to expire. The counting will have to be done between 10 AM and 3 PM when the office is open to allow access to the safe where the offerings are stored. It can be done by a 1 or 2 person team on a rotating basis that will be selected by the team. If you are interested please let Erin, in the office, know or call me, Bob Cook at 734-856-6971.

LYME DISEASE

I have recently known of a few people who were bitten by ticks, and were treated for Lyme's disease. Bacteria on deer ticks cause Lyme's Disease, occurring in all 50 states and throughout the world. It is also also increasing in Michigan. Ticks live in areas of high weeds and grass. This black legged tick live on the blood of many animals including dogs and humans.

If you are bitten by this insect, which can be from the size of a poppy seed up to one-half inch, remove it slowly with tweezers. Get as close to the skin as possible to pull it out near the head and mouth, apply antiseptic to the skin. Take the tick in a plastic bag to the nearest health department for testing and please call your Dr. If you cannot remove the tick from your skin, go to your Dr. or the nearest urgent care center. Infected ticks usually don't spread Lyme disease until they have been attached 36 hours, so the longer the tick remains attached to the skin the greater the risk of getting Lyme disease.

It can take 3 days to a month for humans to develop symptoms of Lyme disease. The first symptom is a reddened bulls eye type rash around the site of the bite. Flu like symptoms develop such as headaches, fever, dizziness, fatigue, tingling and numbness of hands and feet, and migrating joint pain. Go to your Dr. as soon as possible who will treat you with antibiotics for several weeks. Lyme disease is completely curable when diagnosed early, and treated appropriately. There are also blood tests that can reveal a diagnosis.

If untreated, Lyme disease can become chronic with arthritic type symptoms, heart, and neurological symptoms. Long term use of antibiotics are recommended in this case, but chronic Lyme Disease is hard to treat. Presently there is no vaccine for this disease.

For prevention, wear protective clothing such as, long sleeves and pants when in areas where there may be ticks. There are insect repellents for ticks easily available. Check your clothing and shower when coming indoors while checking your skin for ticks. Pets can also bring ticks into your home, so check them often for ticks after being outdoors. Keep wood piles, leaves and brush cleaned up where you walk. By the way, you cannot get Lyme Disease from another human who has this disease.

Blessings, and watch out for ticks! Judy Diener, R.N.

THANK YOU!

The Social Concerns Ministry would like to thank the members of our congregation who generously donated school supplies which we have shared with the 14 members of the congregation who are teachers and are battling through this new normal as they begin the 2020-2021 school year under very different conditions. Each teacher received supplies they could share with their students without the fear of contamination. They are truly heroes and are doing the work of teaching God's little ones

Thank You

SOCIAL CONCERNS ANGEL TREE

The Social Concerns Ministry will soon begin to work on the Angel Tree for this year. We will need to change the process of collecting the gifts due to the Coronavirus. We will still have Angels!! We will still be supplying gifts for the Samaritas Low Income Housing Development! What will change? If you would like to be involved again this year you can pick up your Angel in church after November 14 or if you are not attending services in person, you can sign up indicating you would like to purchase a gift for a child and a child's name can be assigned to you. If you want to buy a gift for a boy, age 2, we will work with you to give you a name of a child as close as we can. You would purchase the gift and return it to the church by Sunday, December 6.

Normally, all the children attend a party in the gathering hall of the complex but due to the virus, each family will need to pick up their gifts separately so we and Samaritas will need more time to complete the process. We know we are rushing the Christmas season but it will take more time this year to make sure that each one of the children receives a gift.

If you would like to put your name on the list ahead of time, you can call the church office and leave your name and a phone number and you will receive a follow-up call from a member of the Social Concerns Ministry.
